PERSONAL SHOPPING FROM THE USA TO AFRICA

Sales + Marketing Agent Training Guide

A practical playbook for serving customers, earning trust, and growing the GeCompras community.

START DATE

14 September 2026

Version 1.0 | Internal use

English master guide | Use approved translations in customer conversations

How to use this guide

The outcome

By the end of onboarding, each agent should be able to explain GeCompras in simple language, qualify a customer without pressure, guide a quote from first contact to payment, create accurate marketing content, and hand off every order cleanly.

The standard

Be warm, be precise, and be honest about what is confirmed versus estimated. A fast answer is useful only when it is correct.

Learning path

- 1 Learn the customer promise and the full order journey.
- 2 Practice quote, payment, shipping, and tracking explanations.
- 3 Run sales conversations using the qualification checklist.
- 4 Create content that is helpful, culturally aware, and fact-checked.
- 5 Complete the role exercises and pass the final knowledge check.

Contents

Module	Focus	Use it when...
1. GeCompras basics	What we do and who we serve	A customer asks what GeCompras is.
2. The customer journey	From product link to delivery	You need to explain the next step.
3. Quotes and payments	Pricing, currency, deposits, checkout	A lead is ready to buy.
4. Shipping and tracking	Carrier status, duties, exceptions	A customer asks where an order is.
5. Sales playbook	Qualification, scripts, objections	You are working a lead.
6. Marketing playbook	Content, campaigns, measurement	You are planning outreach.
7. Team operating system	CRM, handoffs, standards	You are ending your shift.

1. GeCompras basics

What GeCompras does

GeCompras is a US personal shopping service that helps customers in Africa buy products from US brands. The team reviews product requests, prepares a quote, purchases approved items, consolidates shipments when appropriate, and facilitates international delivery.

Customer value

- Access to US brands and retailers.
- One place to request multiple products.
- Transparent quote with itemized costs.
- Support in English, Spanish, and French.
- Tracking and updates after shipment.

What we are not

- We are not the official retailer or brand representative.
- We do not guarantee retailer stock or sale prices.
- We do not promise a delivery date before the quote and carrier confirm it.
- We do not take card numbers, passwords, or bank credentials in chat.
- We do not hide customs or destination charges.

The one-sentence explanation

Say this

GeCompras helps customers in Africa buy products from US stores. Send us the product link, we prepare a transparent quote, and after approval we purchase, ship, and keep you updated.

Our customer promise

Promise	What it means in practice
Access	Help customers find and buy products that are difficult to purchase directly from US retailers.
Transparency	Show product, shipping, applicable tax/duty estimates, service fee, and total clearly in the quote.
Care	Listen for size, color, quantity, destination, timing, and gift details before an item is purchased.
Follow-through	Use the approved workflow and keep customers informed through quote, payment, shipment, and delivery.

2. The customer journey

The six stages

- 1 Discover: The customer finds GeCompras through a referral, social post, search, WhatsApp, or the marketplace.
- 2 Request: They submit a product link or ask an agent to help locate an item.
- 3 Quote: The team checks the item and prepares pricing, shipping, fees, and any applicable tax or duty information.
- 4 Approve and pay: The customer reviews the quote and chooses an available payment method.
- 5 Purchase and ship: GeCompras purchases the item, prepares the shipment, and sends tracking when it becomes available.
- 6 Receive and refer: The customer receives or collects the order, gets support if needed, and can become a repeat or referral customer.

Agent mindset

Every conversation should move the customer one clear step forward: send the link, complete missing details, review the quote, pay, or resolve a specific issue.

The handoff rule

Never leave a customer wondering what happens next. End every conversation with: the current status, the next action, who owns it, and when the next update is expected.

Stage	Agent action	Customer-facing next step
No product link	Ask for URL, product name, size/color, quantity, country, and target timing.	Send the product details so we can prepare a quote.
Quote requested	Check the request is complete; do not invent a price.	We are reviewing the request; the quote will show the full breakdown.
Quote sent	Explain line items and payment path.	Review the quote and choose a payment method.
Paid / processing	Confirm payment status through the system.	We will purchase and send updates as the order moves.
Shipped	Share tracking and explain the carrier status.	Use the tracking page; contact us if an exception appears.

3. Product and service knowledge

What customers can shop

The platform supports broad US shopping requests and a curated marketplace. Common categories include fashion, beauty, electronics, home, sports, luxury, health, auto parts, and selected vehicles through the vehicle marketplace.

Category	Conversation prompts	Watch-outs
Fashion and beauty	Brand, item link, size, color, shade, quantity, preferred alternatives.	Sizing, stock, final sale, liquids, fragrances, and retailer restrictions.
Electronics	Model, storage, voltage, plug type, warranty, accessories.	Compatibility, battery/shipping restrictions, warranty coverage.
Home and sports	Dimensions, weight, quantity, use case, preferred brand.	Oversize shipping, dimensional weight, fragile items.
Luxury	Exact URL, authenticity expectations, packaging, insurance interest.	Never imply brand affiliation or authenticity beyond approved sourcing.
Auto / vehicles	Part number or exact vehicle, year, destination, budget.	Confirm the correct vehicle workflow and escalate import/legal questions.

The product-link checklist

- Open the link or record the exact product name and retailer.
- Capture variant details: size, color, shade, storage, quantity, or part number.
- Check whether the item appears available and whether the displayed price is a sale price.
- Ask for an acceptable alternative if stock or price changes.
- Record the destination country, city, delivery address, phone, and email needed for the quote.

Do not overpromise

Retailer prices, stock, promotions, and shipping rates can change. Say: 'The quote is based on what we can confirm now; we will let you know if the retailer or carrier changes before purchase.'

4. Quotes, pricing, and payments

The quote is the source of truth

Agents should guide customers through the approved quote instead of doing mental math or quoting an amount from memory. The final quote can include product cost, US or applicable sales tax, carrier shipping, service fee, and destination duty/VAT estimates when the workflow provides them.

Line item	How to explain it
Product price	The retailer price available when the quote is prepared; it may change before purchase.
Shipping	The carrier or shipping amount selected for the destination and package details.
Applicable tax	A tax line calculated by the approved workflow; do not promise a universal tax rate.
Service fee	GeCompras' fee for sourcing, purchasing, coordination, and support; it is shown in the quote.
Destination duty / VAT	Use the exact wording and status shown in the approved quote. Estimates can vary by customs authority unless the quote explicitly confirms a prepaid arrangement.
Total	The amount to review and approve. The quote, not a chat estimate, controls the transaction.

Payment rules

Available paths

- Card via secure Stripe checkout.
- ACH or bank transfer.
- MTN Mobile Money in supported countries.
- Cash in Ghana and Equatorial Guinea where offered.
- Approved deposit or split-payment arrangements.

Agent boundaries

- Never ask for a full card number, CVV, PIN, password, or bank login.
- Never say payment is confirmed until the system or finance confirms it.
- Never promise a refund outside the published policy.
- Never send unofficial bank details in a personal message.
- Always include the quote number as the payment reference when instructed.

Deposit reminder

Approved orders may begin with a 30%-50% deposit. The remaining balance is due before shipment. If an order ships before full payment, the balance is due within 14 days under the published terms.

5. Shipping, duties, and tracking

How to speak about shipping

Typical shipping is presented as 7-21 business days depending on destination and method. This is a planning range, not a promise. The selected carrier, service, quote, and live tracking events are more authoritative than a general estimate.

Customer asks...	Safe answer
When will it arrive?	The quote shows the selected service and estimate. Once shipped, the carrier tracking is the best live source.
Where is my package?	I will check the latest carrier event and tell you the exact status, location, and next action.
Can I track before full payment?	After a label is created or the order is shipped, tracking visibility can be available even if an approved balance remains. Payment terms still apply.
Is customs delay delivery?	A customs or duties hold is an exception, not delivery. We will explain the carrier's action requirement and escalate when needed.
Are duties prepaid?	Only say yes when the approved quote and shipment configuration explicitly confirm it. Otherwise say destination charges may apply and escalate to operations.

DDP / DAP guardrail

DDP means the seller arranges and pays destination duties and taxes. DAP means the recipient may pay them on arrival. Agents must never decide or promise the incoterm in chat; use the approved quote and shipment record.

Carrier status language

- Label created: The label exists; the carrier may still be waiting for the first scan.
- In transit: The carrier has the package and it is moving through the network.
- Arrival port / destination scan: The package has reached the destination side of the journey.
- Customs and duties hold: Carrier action or payment may be required; this is not delivered.
- Out for delivery: The carrier has dispatched the package for final delivery.
- Delivered: Only the carrier's delivered status should be treated as delivered.

6. Sales playbook

The sales goal

Good selling at GeCompras is not pressure. It is structured help: understand what the customer wants, remove uncertainty, produce an accurate quote, and make the next action easy.

Fast qualification: the 5D check

D	Question	Why it matters
Desire	What are you hoping to buy, and why this item?	Reveals the real need and useful alternatives.
Details	Can you share the link, exact variant, quantity, and budget?	Prevents quote errors and back-and-forth.
Destination	Which country and city should we quote for?	Shipping, taxes, duties, payment, and timing depend on destination.
Date	When do you need it, and is there a fixed occasion?	Sets a realistic service and shipping conversation.
Decision	Are you ready to review a quote, or are you still comparing options?	Sets the right follow-up pace and avoids pressure.

Lead tiers

Priority now

- Complete product link and destination.
- Clear need and realistic timing.
- Responds to quote questions.
- Ready to choose a payment method.

Nurture or disqualify

- No product, no destination, or no response after follow-up.
- Request is prohibited, unsafe, or impossible to verify.
- Customer needs a price we cannot confirm.
- Timeline is incompatible with the selected service.

Close with a choice

Instead of 'Let me know,' use: 'Would you like us to quote the black size 8, or should I also add the white size 8 as an alternative?'

7. Conversation scripts

First response

Warm opening

Hi [Name], welcome to GeCompras. We help customers in Africa buy from US stores. Send me the product link, your destination country/city, and the size or variant you want. I will help you prepare the next step.

When the customer sends a link

Confirm and clarify

Thanks - I have the link. Before we prepare the quote, please confirm the size/color, quantity, destination city, and when you need the item. Is this the exact version you want, or should we include an alternative?

When the customer asks only 'How much?'

Redirect to accuracy

I can help with that. The final amount depends on the item, destination, package details, shipping, applicable taxes, and our service fee. Send the product link and destination country so we can prepare an accurate quote.

Quote follow-up

Make the next step easy

Hi [Name], your GeCompras quote is ready. It shows the product, shipping, applicable charges, service fee, and total. Please review the line items and let me know whether you want to proceed or change the item, quantity, or shipping option.

After payment

Set expectations

Thank you - we are confirming the payment and moving the order into processing. We will update you as it moves through purchase and shipping. Once tracking is available, you can follow the carrier events from your tracking link.

A concise follow-up cadence

- 1 Same day: acknowledge the request and identify missing information.
- 2 After quote: follow up once with a clear question, not a generic reminder.
- 3 If no reply: send a short second follow-up with the quote number and a simple next action.
- 4 If still no reply: move the lead to nurture and record the next review date.

8. Objection handling

Listen, answer, advance

Use the LAA pattern: Listen without interrupting, Answer the actual concern with the approved information, then Advance with one clear next step.

Objection	Response structure
"It is too expensive."	Acknowledge the budget. Re-explain the full breakdown. Offer a less expensive variant, consolidated shipping, or a different service only if the system supports it. Never hide a fee.
"I found a cheaper price."	Ask whether it includes shipping, tax, duty, warranty, and delivery to the same destination. Compare like for like, and do not criticize another seller.
"Why do I need a service fee?"	Explain that GeCompras sources, purchases, coordinates, and supports the order. Point to the itemized quote.
"Can you guarantee delivery by Friday?"	Ask about the required date. Check the quote and service. Explain the estimate and carrier dependency; do not guarantee what is not confirmed.
"I do not want to pay online."	Share the payment methods available for the customer's country. Use official instructions and never request credentials.
"Customs is asking me for money."	Check the carrier event and quote/incoterm status. Explain only what is confirmed, record the exception, and escalate to operations. Do not tell the customer to pay or ignore it without verification.

Never argue

If the customer is upset, slow down, confirm what happened, and give a specific next update time. Escalation is a service skill, not a failure.

9. Marketing playbook

Who we are trying to reach

Audience	Need	Message angle
First-time buyer	Confidence and clarity.	A guided way to buy from US stores with a transparent quote.
Brand shopper	Access to a specific US brand or product.	Send the link; GeCompras handles the purchase journey.
Busy professional	Convenience and reliable updates.	One request, one quote, one place to track progress.
Gift buyer	Correct item and delivery planning.	We can help source gifts and coordinate destination delivery details.
Repeat customer	Speed and familiarity.	Saved preferences, easier reorders, referrals, and updates.
Community / partner	A trusted resource for their audience.	Referral or campaign partnership built on useful product access.

Five content pillars

Teach and prove

- How to submit a quote.
- How pricing is broken down.
- How to read tracking events.
- Customer stories with permission.
- Product comparison and buying tips.

Convert and retain

- Seasonal product roundups.
- Country-specific shopping ideas.
- Gift guides and occasions.
- Referral and repeat-buyer prompts.
- Clear quote and WhatsApp calls to action.

The content test

Before publishing, ask: Is it true? Is it useful? Is the destination and pricing language clear? Could a customer misunderstand it as a guarantee?

10. Campaign and content workflow

From idea to published post

- 1 Brief: define audience, country, goal, offer, channel, owner, and deadline.
- 2 Research: verify the retailer, product, stock language, pricing, shipping, and any restrictions.
- 3 Create: write in plain language and use the approved English, Spanish, or French version.
- 4 Review: check facts, disclosures, CTA, spelling, image rights, and whether claims are supported.
- 5 Publish: use the approved account, link, UTM or source label, and response owner.
- 6 Learn: record reach, clicks, replies, qualified leads, quotes, paid orders, and lessons.

Content brief template

Field	Example prompt
Audience	Ghanaian customers buying US beauty products for the holiday season.
Problem	They see US products online but cannot easily purchase or ship them.
Promise	GeCompras helps them request a quote and understand the full cost.
Proof	Show the quote flow, tracking page, approved testimonial, or product category.
CTA	Send the product link or start a quote at gecompras.com.
Guardrail	Do not call an estimate a guarantee; do not promise stock, delivery, or customs outcome.

Suggested weekly rhythm

- Monday: review campaign goals, priority products, country focus, and existing leads.
- Tuesday: publish educational content and answer comments or DMs.
- Wednesday: share a product category or comparison with a quote CTA.
- Thursday: follow up with qualified leads and collect recurring objections.
- Friday: publish proof or customer education, then review results and update the next brief.

11. CRM, privacy, and handoffs

Minimum lead record

Record enough for the next teammate to help without making the customer repeat themselves. Use the system fields where available and keep notes factual.

Record	Capture
Identity	Name, preferred contact channel, email or phone, preferred language.
Market	Country, city, source channel, campaign or referral source.
Need	Product link, exact variant, quantity, budget, occasion, deadline.
Stage	New, details needed, quote requested, quote sent, paid, processing, shipped, delivered, nurture, or escalated.
Next step	One action, one owner, and one follow-up date.
Risk / context	Stock change, address concern, payment issue, customs question, or customer preference.

Handoff note format

Use this structure

STATUS: [where it is now] | CUSTOMER NEED: [what they want] | FACTS CONFIRMED: [what we know] | OPEN QUESTION: [what is missing] | NEXT ACTION: [owner + date] | CUSTOMER PROMISE: [what was communicated]

Privacy and security

- Use only the customer information needed for the order or follow-up.
- Do not copy payment credentials, passwords, or sensitive identity documents into notes.
- Do not share customer addresses, phone numbers, order details, or screenshots publicly.
- Use official company channels and approved templates for payment and support.
- If a customer asks for an exception, record the request and escalate rather than improvising.

12. Three-agent operating model

One team, three lanes

All three agents learn the shared core. After onboarding, each person owns a primary lane while covering the others during handoffs, leave, and peak periods.

Lane	Primary ownership	Daily outputs	Success signals
Agent 1: Sales Concierge	Inbound replies, qualification, quote readiness, quote follow-up.	Fast first response, complete requests, documented next steps.	Qualified leads, quote conversion, clean handoffs.
Agent 2: Growth and Partnerships	Outbound prospecting, community relationships, referrals, partner campaigns.	Target list, outreach, partner follow-ups, campaign briefs.	Qualified conversations, partner-sourced quotes, repeatable channels.
Agent 3: Content and Community	Social content, product education, comment/DM support, customer proof.	Content calendar, approved posts, response log, weekly insights.	Engagement quality, qualified leads, content-to-quote influence.

Cross-training expectation

Every agent must be able to

- Explain the product and quote journey.
- Qualify a lead and collect missing details.
- Use approved payment and shipping language.
- Read a tracking event without calling transit delivered.
- Log a next step and escalate a risk.

Primary-lane depth

- Sales: conversation control and follow-up.
- Growth: research, outreach, partnerships.
- Content: briefs, copy, approvals, measurement.
- All: customer empathy, accuracy, and clean records.

Team rule

The customer experiences one GeCompras, not three separate departments. Share context before transferring a conversation.

13. First-week plan: starting 14 September

Day-by-day onboarding

Day	Focus	Practice and proof
Mon 14 Sep	Mission, product, customer journey, tools, communication standards.	Each agent delivers the one-sentence explanation and maps a sample order.
Tue 15 Sep	Quotes, pricing, payment methods, deposits, privacy.	Explain a sample quote without changing any line items.
Wed 16 Sep	Shipping, duties, carriers, tracking, exceptions.	Classify five sample tracking events and write the correct customer response.
Thu 17 Sep	Sales qualification, scripts, objections, CRM.	Role-play an inbound lead, a price objection, and a customs escalation.
Fri 18 Sep	Marketing workflow, content pillars, metrics, team handoffs.	Create one approved content brief and complete the knowledge check.

Daily schedule template

Start of day

- Review new leads and overdue follow-ups.
- Check team notices and approved pricing or shipping updates.
- Choose the top three outcomes for the day.

End of day

- Update every open lead stage.
- Write a next action and date for every active conversation.
- Escalate blockers; share recurring customer questions.

Manager check-in

At the end of week one, the manager should review one real or simulated conversation, one quote explanation, one marketing asset, and one CRM handoff per agent.

14. 30 / 60 / 90-day plan

Ramp expectations

Period	What good looks like
First 30 days - Learn	Can explain GeCompras accurately, handle standard questions, complete records, use scripts naturally, and escalate uncertainty.
Days 31-60 - Perform	Owens a lane, manages a small pipeline or content calendar, improves response quality, and identifies recurring objections or opportunities.
Days 61-90 - Improve	Consistently produces qualified outcomes, contributes playbook improvements, shares customer insight, and supports cross-training.

Scorecard

Area	Measure	Quality check
Speed	First response and follow-up timeliness.	Fast enough for the channel without sacrificing accuracy.
Quality	Complete information and correct language.	No invented pricing, stock, delivery, or customs promises.
Conversion	Qualified lead to quote; quote to paid order.	Customer understands the value and next step.
Retention	Repeat, referral, and resolved support interactions.	Customer feels informed and cared for.
Marketing	Reach, clicks, replies, qualified leads, and influenced quotes.	Content creates useful action, not just vanity engagement.
Teamwork	Handoff completeness and escalation discipline.	The next teammate can act without restarting discovery.

Use trends, not one-day judgment

Sales and marketing results depend on product, season, country, channel, and inventory. Review patterns weekly and pair metrics with the customer conversations behind them.

15. Exercises and certification

Practice set

Exercise	Prompt	Pass condition
30-second pitch	Explain GeCompras to a first-time customer.	Clear, simple, no unsupported promises.
Incomplete request	Customer sends only a product name and says 'How much?'	Collects link, variant, quantity, destination, and timing.
Price objection	Customer says the service fee is too high.	Explains value and quote breakdown without hiding fees.
Tracking exception	Carrier shows duties/taxes hold after destination arrival.	Does not call it delivered; explains action and escalates.
Content brief	Create a post for a country/category audience.	Includes audience, proof, CTA, source, and guardrails.
Handoff	Transfer an active quote conversation to a teammate.	Status, facts, open question, next action, and promise are recorded.

Knowledge check

- What is GeCompras, and what information is needed before a quote can be prepared?
- Why should an agent use the approved quote instead of calculating a price in chat?
- What payment information must an agent never request?
- What is the difference between a label-created update and carrier acceptance?
- When can a customs hold be considered delivery? (Answer: it cannot.)
- When may you describe a shipment as DDP? (Answer: only when the approved quote and shipment record confirm it.)
- What must every handoff contain?

Certification target

An agent is ready for independent customer conversations when they can pass the knowledge check, complete the six exercises, and show sound judgment on one uncertain scenario.

Quick reference and escalation

Customer-ready facts

Topic	Approved reference
Website	www.gecompras.com
Support	support@gecompras.com
WhatsApp	+1 (646) 220-8441
Languages	English, Spanish, and French
Typical quote response	Usually 24-48 hours when the request has enough detail.
Typical shipping range	Usually 7-21 business days, depending on destination and method.
Payment currency	Quotes and charges are in USD; local display may be available.
Tracking	Use the tracking page and live carrier events after label creation or shipment.

Escalate when...

- A customer asks for a price, discount, stock confirmation, or delivery promise you cannot verify.
- A payment appears missing, duplicated, disputed, or associated with a chargeback.
- A shipment has a customs, duties, damage, loss, return, or carrier exception.
- The customer requests a prohibited, restricted, unsafe, or unclear item.
- The customer disputes the quote, policy, refund, or shipping terms.
- You suspect fraud, impersonation, a privacy issue, or a message sent through an unofficial channel.

Final reminder

Trust is the product. When you do not know, say that you will verify it, record the question, and return with a confirmed answer.
